

Stairs:

A ball falls down the stairs. I'm watching. Tok, tok, tok...

Coin:

A coin falls. A version of me sees "Number". A version of me sees "Head"

invitation

I get an invitation. A version of me accepts it. A version of me knocks them out.

Consciousness:

The moment when "heads" or "tails" come up, when I accept or decline the invitation, is present, is consciousness, when the versions of me and the different worlds develop differently, "separate".

world credit:

Before all time and outside of space and time is the starting point. And just as with a loan, the receivable and the liability add up to zero, so all possibilities cancel each other out. The universe evolves in and with its different versions (different versions of me, my fellow human beings, the world, life, knowledge). And everything is form of like form and substance of like substance.

Omega point:

And after all time and outside of space and time is the end point. All versions are known there and all knowledge is combined. Since at this point there is no suffering, no pleasure, no time, but all knowledge is complete, everything that has lived or could have lived must be restored from this point. The opposite would be a logical contradiction. And that is indistinguishable from resurrection.